

Gaultarkis,

I know this will seem unusual, but I believe you are the best person to contact upon my return from Kramer this trip. I would appreciate it if you can keep this a secret for as long as possible, but I returned with the caravan that my son and his companions escorted back from the bridge.

If the council feels it is imperative that my services are required, you are free to inform them that I have returned. Do not try to look for me; you will not be able to find me. However, you do not need to be reminded of this.

In confidence,
Luvian Witson
