

Dear Olí,

I am sorry this has to be all business, but you are in terrible danger. I am sure you already know this. I have done what I can to protect you so far, but events are about to unfold that may put you and your companions in far more danger than brigands, gith-hunters or fiends have posed in recent weeks. Keep alert and do not lose hope, whatever happens. I believe you and your companions are The Seven and you have much to do before you are taken from this life.

Luvian

P.S. Stay away from the house. It is not safe.
